At 3:30 Tomorrow
With Modern Music

First of what is planned to be the annual "Christmas Marathon" will be conducted by members of Student Union board committees, beginning at 3 p.m. tomorrow.

Included in the "Marathon"—so called because its participants will, during the course of the afternoon, divide their time between the music room, the ballroom, and the path from the Union building to Maxwell place—are a concert, a dance, a sing and serenade, topped with refreshments.

A concert of modern music in the Student Union Music room will open the program at 3:30 p.m.

HEAR THESE RECORDS

Recordings to be played on the program of this regular weekly concert are "One O'Clock Jump". All-

Star band: "Bugle Call Rag," Benny Goodman; "No Name Jive," Charlie Barnet; "Quiet Please, Tommy Dorsey; "Woodchoppers Ball," Woody Herman; "Let Me Off Uptown," Glenn Miller; "Sunrise Serenade," Harry James; "Dancing In the Dark" Artie Shaw; "South Rampart Street Parade," Bob Crosby; "Jingle Bells," Glenn Miller.

At 4 p.m. the marathoners will proceed from the music room to the Bluegrass room of the Union where Dave Mahanes and his Kentucky Cardinals will furnish an hour of dance music.

Dancing will end at 5 o'clock when Donald Alton of the music department, to be introduced by Master of Ceremonies Rex Osten, will lead in the singing of Christmas songs. When the impromptu chorus has reached sufficient proficiency, it will march to Maxwell

Place and serenade President Herman L. Donovan.

REFRESHMENTS

From Maxwell Place, the group will return to the Student Union for cakes and hot chocolate to be served beneath the tree in the great hall.

The Student Union music committee, cooperating with house and reception committees, are sponsoring the marathon program. George Dudley, chairman of the program committee, is in charge of arrangements, being aided by Mamie Goodman, Mable Warnecke, Clay Vandlingham, Elizabeth Wigginton, Josephine Baldorf, and Billy Calvert.

Tom Walker, chairman of the Reception committee, is in charge of refreshments.

The house committee, of which Margaret Blackerby is chairman, is sponsoring the sweater session. Assisting are Edith Conant, Jeannette Graves, and Roy Cunningham.

OF CHRISTMASRannels Collection
To Be Displayed
In Art Gallery

Thirty-one full-color reproductions of paintings which illustrate the Christmas story, from the collection of Prof. E. W. Rannels, head of the art department, will be on display in the art galleries of the Biological Sciences building through the holidays.

Including the works of German Italian, Dutch, Flemish, Belgian, and Austrian painters, the exhibit covers representations of the Christmas story from the 13 to the 19 centuries.

A short explanation of the iconography and symbolism of the pictures, which are mostly nativities, flights, into Egypt, and adorations of kings and shepherds, will accompany each piece.

The purpose of the exhibit is to promote an interest in the study of history through art, and to further this end by complete information on each painting.

subject. Dr. Donovan assured the students that the University is interested in their welfare and will do all in their power to aid them in this crisis.

WHAT BOYD SAYS

Dr. P. P. Boyd, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, told The Kernel that he feels some distinction should be made between the art department and draftees.

Students should be encouraged not to drop out of school until necessary," he said.

"Degrees should certainly be granted in case of conscription," Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, Dean of the Graduate School, said. He also favors some provision for volunteers.

The Student Bar association was the first campus organization to endorse the proposal, which also contains a clause granting credits to undergraduates for their semester's work if not completed.

The University faculty is composed of President Herman L. Donovan, Henry Hill, dean of the University; Frank D. Peterson, comptroller; Leo M. Chamberlain, registrar; and the deans of the seven colleges.

WHO GRANTS DEREES

The process of granting degrees consists of three steps. First, the instructors make recommendations to the dean of their college who is a member of the University faculty. The dean then introduces it into the faculty meeting and, if approved, the recommendation is submitted to the Board of Trustees for final approval.

It is possible, Dr. Donovan said, that the proposal may go into effect this semester if it meets the approval of the faculty and the Board of Trustees.

In 1917 a similar action was taken by the University. A month after the war was declared degrees were being granted.

Seven Y Members To Attend
National Conference At Miami

Delegates from the University YWCA and YMCA will meet with student delegates from throughout the nation at the National Assembly of Student Christian Associations from December 27 to January 3 at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio.

Betty South, president of the YWCA and senior delegate; Mildred Murray, junior delegate; and Anne Crutcher, sophomore delegate, will represent the YWCA. Alternates are Dorothy Paul, Sarah Anne Hall, and Helen Harrison.

YMCA delegates are John Long, Walter Leet, William Campbell, and Donald Lail.

Anne Morrow, YMCA secretary; and Dr. J. Huntley Dupre, history professor, will also attend the assembly. Dr. Dupre will be in charge of the faculty seminar.

These delegates will represent the opinion of this campus through discussions in seminar meetings and by voting on problems that will arise at the assembly.

The assembly, which is held once in a college generation, has as its theme Christian Faith and Social Reconstruction. It will be the duty of the delegates to chart the direction of student Christian associations for the next four years.

At a meeting of the YWCA delegates Tuesday it was decided that Betty South should make a study of the economic problems of the south, including interracial problems; Mildred Murray, the international relations situation; and Anne Crutcher, the function of the YWCA on this campus.

Tough Battle Expected
When Nebraska Invades
Wildcat Camp TonightREVENGE WISHED
FOR LAST YEAR

King, Akers
Slated To Start
For First Time

By JOHNNY CARRICO
Kernel Sports Editor

After succumbing by a narrow margin to Ohio State of the Big Ten, Kentucky moves a little lower in the numerical scale of conferences when it challenges a member of the Big Six, Nebraska, tonight at 8:15 in Alumni gym.

Although the Wildcats more than fulfilled his expectations Saturday night, Adolph Rupp anticipates a tough battle tonight from the Cornhuskers.

The Wildcats are out to revenge the one-point loss the Nebraskans handed Kentucky last year at Lincoln. The Huskers inaugurated a disastrous Kentucky invasion of the West by halting the Cats, 40-39.

HUSKERS LOOSE FITZ

Runners-up in the Big Six conference last year, the Huskers lost only one man by graduation. This was lanky Don Fitz, who totalled 12 points against the Cats last year.

The 1941 Nebraska quintette shows a 48-28 victory over South Dakota. The Huskers met Indiana of the Big Ten at Bloomington last night.

Spearhead of the Nebraska attack is big John Held, six-foot-four guard. Selected on the all-Big Six team, Held was third in conference scoring and led his mates in points gained.

TWO CATS HURT

The Ruppmen suffered two casualties in their struggle with the Bucks. Ken England received a badly bruised hand and Mel Brewer suffered a back injury.

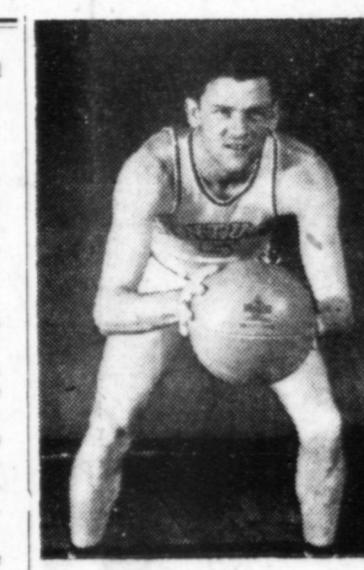

However, both men will probably be available for the Nebraska game tonight, for they participated in practice yesterday. Marvin Akers has a slight cold but this is not expected to hamper his play.

Jim King and Akers invade the starting lineup for the first time this season. Akers has been held back by a badly sprained ankle, and King will replace the ailing Brewer.

The Wildcats play three games during the holidays, all in Alumni gym. They meet South Carolina on December 22, Texas A. & M. on December 30, and Washington and Lee on January 2.

The probably starting lineup:

Kentucky	F	Nebraska	P
Tico	P	Fitzgerald	Thompson
Allen	P	Allen	Goutz
King	C	Held	Held
Akers	G	Staker	Young

will start tonight.

NYA Will Drop No One
This Term, Despite CutBudget To Be
40 Percent Less
Next Semester

Although the budget for NYA students will probably be cut at least 40 percent next semester, no one will be dropped from the work during the current semester, it was announced by Dean Henry H. Hill at a meeting of NYA students yesterday afternoon in Memorial hall.

If it is quite possible that many students now on NYA will have to be dropped next semester although the number may be reduced, some take private jobs, better circumstances at home, and the selective service. There will be no new students added unless the quota permits it. Dean Hill said.

Those who will be kept in the employment will be determined by the need for employment and the grades that are made. Those who need the work less and whose grades are not adequate will be dropped first.

Steps will be taken to place the students in outside work to prevent any having to leave school," Dean Sarah B. Holmes said.

It was requested that any who did not absolutely need NYA work might lessen their working hours or stop work altogether.

"We do not want any of you to leave school," Dean Hill said. "but we would like for you all, especially the men, to keep an eye open for possible positions downtown or in private homes. It would help the person who has to work the work."

Out of the $140,000,000 set aside for NYA work, $40,000,000 has already been turned over to national defense.

"We wish every student to do the thing that is best for himself and his fellow student, but most important the thing that is best for our country," Dean Hill concluded.

This is one of the unique hobbies to be exhibited in the All-Campus hobby show, open from 1 to 5 p.m. yesterday, today and tomorrow in room 204, Union building.

Another exhibit at the show will be pictures of Ex McAfee, janitor in the Biological Sciences building. The face of Ex has inspired several works of art—including a sketch by Jeanne Bowne, a painting by an art student, and a photograph which was exhibited in last year's photography show. Miss Bowne is completing a new painting of Ex.

A collection of canines by Kate Woods, arts and sciences junior, includes 39 pieces. They range from an almost infinitesimal black pup to Mickey Mouse's Pluto. Fur com's, and glass dogs are included in the group.

Regina Arruda, graduate student from Rio de Janiero, has combined her postcard collection into a scrapbook which she has entitled "My American Roundabout".

Ticket sales show an increase over last year's totals for the same period, Miss Bouton added.

"Developments on the war front hurt attendance considerably Monday and Tuesday nights for 'Ladies in Retirement,' but the other performances played to near-capacity houses," she said.

Santa Won't Have To Spend Any Money On Us This Year

We're not asking for anything expensive from Santa this year.

We haven't put bombers or battleships on our list because we know that he is giving us every one he can possibly make already.

But we are asking for just a few promises, or a few announcements which won't cost him one cent in cash money. Yet, they are about the most appreciated gifts he could possibly give to any University of Kentucky student.

• FIRST — From the Board of Trustees, acceptance of the student petition for granting of degrees to graduating seniors who have to leave school for military service, and awarding of credit for the semester to all undergraduates who are called—provided, of course, that they are passing all subjects. This would take a great amount of worry off the minds of students, and, in view of the situation, would be the only fair thing to do. (And incidentally, would probably result in a number of students registering for school who otherwise would stay out for fear of being called and losing the benefits of their fees.)

• SECOND — From the University faculty, acceptance of the proposed amendments to the SGA constitution which would give students a larger voice in direction of their own affairs.

• THIRD, and most important — From the government of the United States some honest statement of war aims. The one note of hesitancy which still echoes in the back of many an undergraduate mind is the fear that, caught up in a post-war spirit of isolationism and vindictiveness and desire to "make-em-pay," the diplomats of the day will be talked into another Treaty of Versailles. A sincere declaration by the leaders of the Allied powers that they are intending to close the war with a just peace, providing and assuring by promises of aid in the future a democratic system of government for the conquered nations, would completely win over every thinking college student.

If we could see the hope that this war is going to be the last one, we would certainly have a Merry Christmas.

Thanks, But We'll Keep Our Sense Of Humor

Last Friday we printed a letter from a student who was shocked at THE KERNEL's impudence in wisecracking about certain aspects of the war. Specifically, he objected to our alleged witicism that, no matter how many bombs are falling on the Philippines or how many ships are being sunk, Any Bonds Today is still a corny

This attitude is just what we had in mind when we wrote the reputedly humorous piece.

We recognize the seriousness of the situation and the vital need for patriotism, but just the

Keep Calm, Study, And Be Prepared Students Are Advised By Editors

ON THE COLLEGE FRONT By JIMMY HURT

1. Keep calm.

2. Stick to your studies

3. Prepare for the future

Those were the keynotes of advice struck in college editorials last week.

Immediately upon the declaration of war by Japan, and the American declaration soon following, schoolastic editors rallied their schools on the All-Out side. Among the papers received at the Kernel office, not one dissenting voice was heard.

The Daily Pennsylvanian said:

"Why the little yellow men decided to commit national suicide we do not know. Perhaps they do not realize that he who attacks America faces a people who have not and will not know defeat. We are not divided. As a self-governing people we have discussed the necessity of punishing the wicked little boys of the old world. Now the decision is made, Nippon will find us one hundred and thirty million individuals thinking and acting with but one purpose—to defend our country."

The Indiana Daily Student cautioned students to remember the future:

"This is definitely no time for a 'what's the us of studying' attitude that we have noticed becoming prevalent in the student body. Just as in peace we prepare for defense—and war if it comes—so we must prepare for peace in time of war."

There WILL BE A FUTURE, but and "The Star Spangled Banner," we have another job on our hands, marched through the city, gathering members all along the way, until 1,500 were present.

LSU TASTES HYSTERIA

The mob first went to the home of the university's commanding Colonel, but, finding him not at home, went to the home of the president of the University. The crowd here stormed and yelled "Go to hell, Tokyo, go to hell," until President Hedges appeared on the porch, wrapped in a dressing gown and standing on the arm of his porch swing so that he might be seen and heard by the students.

Here he advised them that although enthusiasm for country was not out of place, "mass meetings will not aid the war situation.

"This war is a very serious and solemn affair," he said. "Most of you are too young to be in the war right away but demands will be made on all of us for service before the war is over." "Every man and woman," he continued, "has a job to do. Your job is to get your education here at school. In my opinion this affair will last a long time. You students will have your chance."

He ended by urging the students to "go on home, study, and make A's tomorrow." At the end of the speech, the group disbanded.

Louisiana State University got a taste of war hysteria in the form of the most spirited demonstration reported in the Kernel exchanges.

What We Need Is A Big 'Give-mas' Instead Of The Traditional Holiday

I WITNESS BY BOB BAKER

SANTA
He has the right idea.

on each holiday, instead of all the people once a year, as with our present type of Christmas.

In Time magazine we came across the tale of T. Harper Goodspeed who is so addicted to nicotine that he traveled 12,000 miles and risked his good life in the Andes to gather tobacco plants. As a result of his travels, which had a sensible purpose after all, since he was uncovering new species for the Dept. of Agriculture, he succeeded in finding tobacco plants of amazing qualities (one species grows to a height of 40 feet).

The article goes on to say his expedition had no easy time being forced to sleep with guinea pigs, ride along precipices on dynamite trucks and break ice on hog troughs to wash their faces.

Which all brings us to a consideration of the hold that tobacco has on us. Why we know legions of people who would think nothing of braving such insignificant hardships if there were a chance that a good smoke lay on the other end. People used to laugh at the old ad slogan "I'd walk a mile for a Camel" but nowadays we literally do or would if it weren't for the good hundred yards from a cigarette dealer.

It's an old idea but why not have an annual Give-mas on which little children and adults would really give instead of get. Nothing new would be bought, the whole idea would be to give up something you already own and regard with a little endearment. After all, brotherly love and the spirit of sacrifice are true Christian-mas principles so why not?

Somebody suggested the Give-mas might work if it could be decided who would receive the gifts.

Last year one University of Arizona co-ed unexpectedly confided: "I came to be went with—but I ain't yet!"

Sees Disrespect To Anthem

To the Editor of The Kernel:

I am writing this letter to call attention to something which may well be an oversight, but which gives a decidedly bad impression of our youth at this university. In this hour when we are uniting to fight for the principles of democracy our citizenship in this country is something we should have sacred.

The Star Spangled Banner has been officially designated by act of Congress as our national anthem. In tribute, all officers, enlisted men, and civilians should rise and stand at attention facing the music when it is played in theaters, stadiums, etc.

In the Blue Grass ballroom of the University last Saturday night when the Star Spangled Banner was played, not only did some of the members of the ROTC fail to stand at attention, but instead displayed courtesy and rudeness by casually walking around, some even clowning to distract the attention of those in patriotic attitude.

It was surprising to note that some of them were so rude through their thoughtlessness were members of the advanced corps. Never in the history of this country have we faced a more serious time. Being American citizen's is one of our greatest privileges. We fell a deep loyalty to The United States, let us show.

Hello there Helen! A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to you if I don't see you any more before school is out. My dear, I don't see how anyone is going to get through all their school work with so many parties going on.

Sunday there were two organizations that felt in the Christmas mood. The Alpha Xi Deltas entertained a group of the children in the Shriners' hospital. Games were played children The Delta Chi party was held at the chapter house, which

Cats Are Nipped By Bucks, 43-41

Ticco Vans Scorers With Nine Points; Rupp Praises UK

By JIMMY BROWN

In a nip and tuck affair that saw victory almost handed to Kentucky in the closing seconds, Ohio State, with their best team since 1924, handed the Cats their first defeat of the season Saturday night at Columbus, 43-41.

The difference between what was and what might have been was Mill Ticco's muffed crisp shot with less than 10 seconds left in the game and the Cats behind by a lone point.

Otherwise the big Jenkins junior was the big noise in the Blue scoring parade, racking up nine points on four fields goals and the Cats behind by a lone point.

Coach Harold Olsen declared that it was one of the best games played on the Ohio court in the last 10 years. According to reports, fans in the Ohio city expected the Bucks to have a comparatively easy time in disposing of the Wildcats.

WHAT RUPP SAID
Coach Rupp said that he was well satisfied with the Cats performance, and that they played a "really swell" game.

Ohio State took the lead on a free toss by Fisher, but Mel Brewer immediately sent the Cats to the fore with a crisp. From then until the end of the first half the score was knotted seven times, although at one time the Bucks took their longest lead of the entire fray, 17-11. However, England and Ticco closed the gap and tied the count at 17-all.

At the end of the first half the score stood 24-24, only a long and vigorous argument with the officials. Press books showed the Bucks in the lead 26-24, but the official score, being kept by Bill Evans, Kentucky student manager, and the Ohio State manager, showed the count deadlocked.

SECOND HALF

The second half was just as close as the first, with Cats pulling ahead 31-28 after about six minutes. Ohio State regained the lead, however, and never were headed, although the Cats drew even twice.

Aside from Ticco, other Cat batters who turned in bright performances were Captain Carl Staker, Ken England, and Mel Brewer. Staker's play, which hasn't been up to standard, showed marked improvement in the Columbus encounter. The only disappointing performance was turned in by Waller White. After leading Cat scorers with ten points in their opening triumph over Miami, he failed to count against the Bucks.

KERNEL SPORTS

Sporting Way

BY JOHNNY CARRICO

Dear Santa,

Since Christmas comes but once a year (and conference victories for Kentucky football teams even less often), I think that you should give this letter a little consideration. This has been a long hard year and my locks are assuming the snowy hue that doesn't come from a happy, contented old age.

I've tried hard to be a good boy this year. No one can say that I haven't been generous to and thoughtful of my Big 12 friends. I've tried to be cordial and friendly even in the darkest moments (and sometimes it seemed that the dark would put the Arctic night to shame in its length). I've ignored the unkind remarks made about my team and its efforts and put it down to misplaced enthusiasm.

So on Christmas morning, dear old Kris, can't you find it in your old jolly heart to leave me all those little goodies that coaches love so much? Some of the larger items include another halfback like Ermal, a couple of guards (the Suffridge type, if you please), some ends (the Don Huston variety), and any other all-American bric-a-brac your little brownies may have on the fire.

HE WANTS THESE, TOO

I am also requesting some smaller gifts which I found that I needed this year and expect to find useful in the coming season. Please bring me:

A quarterback's manual;
A football with a rubber and attached that automatically returns to the center when the backfield has left for parts unknown;

A book on psychology;
Some barbed wire (I'm experimenting with a new type of defense);

A Lynx-trap, for a particularly pesky animal that caused us a lot of trouble this year (if no traps are in stock, just send me the animal. He can be found in his native habitat at Southwestern college).

FORGET THE SOUTH

Incidentally, I see no reason why you should go south of Lexington on this trip. Those boys down there — Frank Thomas, Red Sanders, Bill Alexander, and John Barnhill — have already had their Christmases. You might bring a little patriotism to their squads and suggest that they leave immediately to combat the Yellow Peril. Every little thing helps.

I trust you do not find me greedy, Mr. Kringle, but it is a well-known fact that we are underprivileged from a winning point of view. Thanking you in advance for a

CAMELS

There's an added pleasure in giving Camels at Christmas. You know your gift will be so genuinely welcome. More smokers prefer Camels than any other cigarette. And that preference holds for men in the Army, the Navy, the Marines, and the Coast Guard, too! So remember those lads in uniform... remember all the cigarette smokers on your list... with the cigarette of costlier tobaccos — Camels. Your choice of the package of four flat fifties or the popular Camel carton.

Phi Beta Alumnae Entertain Chapter

The alumni chapter of Phi Beta entertained with a Christmas party last Friday in the Music room of the Union building in honor of the actives and pledges of the chapter.

The room was decorated in the Christmas motif and a program was presented by members of the active chapter.

Following the recital, tea was served. The tables held arrangements of holly and red Christmas candles.
